

New York, NY – March 3, 2010 – De Novo Legal Electronic Discovery LLC, has received ISO/IEC 27001:2005 certification from BSI Management Systems, a leading information security management systems (ISMS) certification body. De Novo Legal was awarded the distinction - certificate number 557135 - for its U.S. E-Discovery operations. This is in addition to the SAS 70 Type II certification of both its New York and San Jose data centers.

ISO/IEC 27001:2005 is an ISMS standard published by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) that identifies, manages and minimizes a range of threats to business information. It is widely considered a gold standard in information security, providing guidelines for implementing a constructive risk management process, setting up policies, and ensuring a secure infrastructure is in place. This standard shows that a business has taken preventative measures to protect clients' data, and demonstrates to customers and prospects that the business is observing a duty of care.

ISO/IEC 27001:2005 represents the only auditable international standard to define the requirements for ISMS, with certification achieved exclusively by companies that demonstrate the highest competency in information security management. De Novo Legal Electronic Discovery is the only e-discovery company to have its e-discovery processing centers certified under ISO/IEC 27001:2005 and SAS 70 Type II certification at the same time.

"We are delighted to now offer our clients a platinum standard for client data security. By having our organization ISO 27001:2005 audited and certified as well as having our data centers SAS 70 Type II certified, demonstrates our world class operations are secure and without peer in the legal industry." said Michael McDonald, Managing Director of De Novo Legal.

"The hard work put in by the team at De Novo Legal Electronic Discovery to obtain our ISO 27001:2005 certificate signals De Novo's commitment to elite competency in information security management. It is rewarding to know that our communication standards, technology, people and overall environment meets the demanding standards of ISO 27001:2005." said Susan Parrett, Esq., National Director of Operations for De Novo Legal.
